

Structural change and technological upgrading in times of globalization: strategies and policies for developing countries

Research workshop

University of Siegen | 8-10 November 2018

Thursday, 8 Nov 2018 | Room: Kohlbettstraße 15, US-D 312

14:30	Arrival & Check-in
15:00	Welcome & Opening
15:15- 16:30	KEYNOTE Tilman Altenburg (German Development Institute): Green industrial policies: perspectives for developing countries
Tea & coffee break
17:00- 19:00	Session 1: Trade and industrialization Guiding question for discussion: With regards to industrialization, is it necessary to regulate trade to increase development opportunities, or is it rather necessary to liberalize it? Chair: Jakob Hafele
	Claudius Gräbner (Johannes Kepler University Linz): Structural change in times of increasing openness: a channel for the cementation of existing inequalities?
	Emanuele Russo (Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies Pisa): Endogenous growth and global divergence in a multi-country agent-based model
	Mini break
	Alex Pelham (Colorado State University): Different Flavors of Industrial Upgrading for Development Policy: Structural Change and Determinants of Trade Demand
	Cornelia Staritz (University of Vienna): Buyers, FDI or Industrial Policy? Industrialization and local firm learning in apparel global value chains in Madagascar and Ethiopia
19:30 Dinner at Gasthaus Peun (Oststraße 15)

Friday, 9 Nov 2018 | Room: Kohlbettstraße 15, US-D 312

9:30-10:45	Session 2: Trade and Industrial Policy Guiding question for discussion: What have we learned about effective industrial policy instruments? Chair: Svenja Flechtner
Gashaw Tsegaye (Horn Economic and Social Policy Institute Addis Abeba): Trade implications of industrial policy: the case of industrial parks in Africa
Nicolai Schultz (London School of Economics and Political Science): Are Export Restrictions the Right Tool to Promote Commodity Processing? A Comparative Analysis of African Commodity Processing Industries
Tea & coffee break
11:15-13:00	Session 3: The political economy of upgrading and technological capabilities Guiding question: How do national power blocs and social coalitions influence the policy space for industrial policies? Chair: Claudius Gräbner
Jan Grumiller (Austrian Foundation for Development Research): Managing Institutional Setups for Industrial Policy: a neo-Gramscian approach
Misook Choi (University of Groningen): Authoritarian States and Industrial Transformation: A Comparative Case Study of CIS countries
Svenja Flechtner (University of Siegen): The political economy of the middle-income trap and industrial policies in Latin America
13:30 Lunch at Zeughaus (Burgstraße 18)
15:00-16:30	Guided visit of Siegerlandmuseum im Oberen Schloss, Schaubergwerk (historic tunnel mine) Oberes Schloss 2/ Burgstraße
17:00-18:45	Session 4: The role of natural resources and the environment Guiding question: Which kind of policies can address the trade-off between development and the excessive exploitation of natural resources? What can we learn from specific country experiences? Chair: Ulrike Lich
Bernhard Tröster (Austrian Foundation for Development Research): Commodity-based development via linkages: the example of soft commodities
Laiké Yang (East China Normal University): Global Value Chains, China's Position and Environment Deterioration
Yana Zabanova (Private University of Applied Sciences Göttingen): State-Led Promotion of Renewable Energy Sources (RES) in Armenia through a Political Economy Lens
19:30 Dinner at Café Flocke (Marburger Straße 45)

Saturday, 10 Nov 2018 | Room: Kohlbettstraße 15, US-D 312

09:30-11:15	Session 5: Learning from country case studies Guiding question: How can we synthesize these topics and insights and bring them together in the analysis of single country case studies? How can these case studies feed back into comparative analyses? Chair: Melike Döver
	Christina Saulich (HTW Berlin): Pathways of industrialization in Mozambique: a two-sector comparison
	Dirk Hansohm (Bonn International Center for Conversion): Regional trade as alternative to global trade for structural change? The case of Southern Africa
	Melike Döver (HTW Berlin): The Potential of Intra-African Trade for Structural Transformation in Sub-Saharan Africa
Tea & coffee break
11:30-12:30	Closing session/ discussion
13:00 Farewell/ Lunch at Brasserie (Unteres Schloß 1)

Organizers: Melike Döver (HTW Berlin), Svenja Flechtner (University of Siegen), Claudius Gräbner (JKU Linz) and Jakob Hafele (ZOE).

Local organizer: Svenja Flechtner (svenja.flechtner@uni-siegen.de).

The symposium enjoys financial support by the Fritz Thyssen foundation.